7. Rules applied

The following illustrative rules of intestate succession were applied. They are simplified and do not represent the law of any particular jurisdiction.

- A surviving spouse inherits one third of the estate when descendants survive.
- Descendants inherit the remainder in equal shares per child (per stirpes).
- A child who predeceased the deceased is represented by his or her own descendants.
- Children born outside marriage have the same rights as children of the marriage once parentage is established.
- A former spouse whose marriage was dissolved before death has no right to inherit.
- Ascendants and collateral relatives inherit only if there are no descendants and no surviving spouse.

8. Certification

I certify that the above has been compiled from the documents listed in section 6 and, to the best of my knowledge, correctly identifies all persons entitled to inherit from the estate of Henrik Anders Lindqvist.
